

MEd in Educational Psychology

The master's in educational psychology (MEd) has wide applicability. This degree can be obtained in its generalized track, in the form of a customizable specialization, or in the Higher Education Student Affairs (HESA) nonthesis track. The customizable specialization allows students to collaborate with their academic advisor to determine electives that meet the student's needs and interests with emphasis on specific skills and knowledge.

The following customizable specializations are among the options available:

- Learning and memory;
- Behavioral management and motivation;
- Diversity and advocacy;
- Program evaluation;
- Professional development;
- Institutional and industrial consultation;
- Social psychology and leadership skills;
- School psychology foundations - for those who wish to pursue a career in school psychology; and
- Doctoral foundations - prepares students to move on to a doctoral program.

Admission

To be considered for admission to the MEd in educational psychology, students must provide:

- Their grade point average (GPA);
- Evidence of academic competence;
- A resume;
- Names and contact information for two people to serve as professional references;
- A statement of professional goals; and
- A statement of research interests.

Evidence of academic competence can be provided in one of the following ways:

- GPA of 3.000 or higher in all coursework;
- Graduate Record Examination (GRE) scores of at least 150 for each GRE subsection (verbal and quantitative) and a GRE writing assessment score of 4.0 or higher; or
- Miller Analogies Test equal to the national mean score at the time of taking the exam (400).

Applications for admission to the MEd in educational psychology program are reviewed throughout the year as they become completed. Candidates who apply are considered in the order in which their applications are completed until all openings are filled.

Apply online at the WSU application portal (<https://www.wichita.edu/grad/application/>).

Program Requirements

The master's in educational psychology (MEd) has wide applicability and can be obtained in two ways:

1. MEd in educational psychology general track; or
2. MEd in educational psychology with customizable specializations.

Background Check

Upon admission and prior to their first semester, all applicants admitted to this program must clear a criminal background check. There are two reasons for this requirement. First, it is part of the university's due diligence before placing students in field settings. Second, the check may alert applicants or students to issues that may subsequently affect their ability to work in their chosen field. In instances when a person's criminal history raises reasonable concerns that should be cleared to engage in the field experiences and/or subsequently obtain licensure/endorsement, WSU may take a range of actions, including rescission of admission or dismissal from the program, depending on the nature of the concern.

For information regarding this requirement, visit: Advanced Programs (<https://wichita.edu/clesadvancedprograms/>).

Applied Learning

Students in the educational psychology (MEd) program are required to complete an applied learning or research experience to graduate from this program. The requirement can be met by conducting a case study research in CESP 728. The case study is guided and supervised by the educational psychology faculty and provides students with the opportunity to observe, assess and interact with a child/adolescent and the child's family in the real world.
