

BFA in Art - Studio Art: Community and Social Practices Concentration

The Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) in art — studio art emphasis develops students’ perceptual skills, technical making skills, creativity, and ability to think critically and independently. Students are encouraged to explore ideas between fine and applied arts methodologies and gain experiences in developing and applying skills and creativity outside the classroom. Instruction in use of art materials and specific art processes enables students to create original work reflecting their evolving vision. The degree program also facilitates broad cultural awareness of the visual arts in society through art history and criticism, the expectation of travel, and applied, real-world experiences required within the curriculum. Graduating majors are able to clearly express ideas through artworks via historical and contemporary aesthetic and technical models, along with developing a substantial vision for their own careers and/or creative possibilities in the 21st century art world.

The community and social practices concentration offers studio courses from a student’s choice in media along with coursework exploring the multiple ways art functions within and relates to different communities, cultures and constituent audiences. It is the concentration for students interested in arts administration, art therapy, and facilitating artistic and creative projects in communities.

Program Requirements

A minimum total of 120 credit hours is required for the BFA in studio art and includes 86 credit hours of art and art history courses.
